OFFERS POTASH FOR U. S. COAL

(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, Dec. 5.—The German Potash syndicate is negotiating with America again, says the North German Gazette which believes it will be able to reach an agreement in regard to the exchange of potash for American coal. Negotiations took place between the Germans and Americans last summer but failed, says the paper, because America still thought it could rely on its own substitute for potash and refused the German offer, whereupon Germany sold her output, which was intended for the United States, to Sweden. Negotiations, say the Berlin paper, have now been resumed to enable the German potash mines, of which 120 are crippled through lack of coal while others have only twenty five per cent enough fuel, to buy American coal with dollars and reconvert by selling potash to America at dollar rates. Other negotiations are also under way between Germany and Holland for milk and dairy products in exchange for potash.

$1600 STREAK IN THE BELCHER EX NEW SHAFT

According to official reports from the Belcher Extension the highgrade streak in the new shaft on the surface fissuring has widened to twenty-six inches, which samples for the full width of the streak, $1600. The additional two-foot streak to the footwall side runs $250 and, an average of the entire face is $130, while an average grab sample from the dump returned $99. Ten inches of the rich streak goes $1,600 a ton. The shaft is now down to thirty-six feet and sinking at the rate of six feet a day. An electric hoist and equipment has been ordered shipped by express from San Francisco and should arrive by Monday, when it will be installed to hasten development. The favorable condition is spreading out the mineralization complete and simplification of the entire bottom of the shaft which shows an unusual large quantity of quartz. In the bonanza ore iron stains greatly predominate. The most impressive feature is the way the mineralized area increased with depth and the further fact that the beginning of the enrichment on the surface yielded $70 and reaching the present status which can be duplicated at any number of places for the entire distance of 500 feet along the outcrop where equal values are found. This warrants the belief that as the values are carried for the full distance the find cannot be classed as a pocket as many of these outcrop in the wash. The present prospecting scheme of the Thomson company is conducted from Belcher Extension ground where a series of cross trenches along the tract have been driven to fix conclusively the continuation of the Belcher Ext. ledge which has been firmly established to within a few hundred feet of the Thomson line. It is not planned to do any shaft sinking on the Thomson until the prospecting crew establishes the continuation on the property. Belcher Ext. was the leader on the San Francisco Stock exchange, where sales of $7,000 shares were reported. The market opened with sales at 45 and closed steady at 46. New York was buying freely, according to early reports and sales as high as 49 1/2 were reported from the eastern curb. Divide Extension dropped to $1 flat on sales of 143,000 shares and the total turnover of the day in San Francisco was 662,200 shares.

IRON JUNK IN PLACE OF GOLD

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—A box containing $25,000 in gold coin shipped by the Anglo and London-Pacific National bank of San Francisco on the liner Korea Maru, August 2, was found to contain scrap iron, and metal washers when opened by the consignee in Hongkong. The bank, acting as agent for a New York firm, packed two boxes, each containing $25,000 in gold, and the correctness of the shipment was certified to by three trusted employees. Both boxes were put in the strong room of the steamship, but only one of them arrived at its destination with gold in it. Officers of the bank said they believed the substitution of scrap iron for the gold was either made on board the steamer or after the comment reached Hongkong.
